

Powerway® Document Control Number Dispenser

Powerway Number Dispenser creates, controls, manages, tracks, reports, and uses preset number lists for numbering schemes like document numbers, work order numbers or purchase order numbers.

- Automated creation and administration of number sets such as purchase order numbers or engineering drawing IDs.
- Easy multi-list control with maximum flexibility over functions such as number use, viewing, copying and printing.
- Number Dispenser records when each number was used and how it was used, along with any pertinent comments. It ensures the integrity of your number system by preventing the re-use of numbers.

Powerway Number Dispenser enables you to create, control, manage, track, report, and use preset number lists for numbering schemes like document numbers, work order numbers, drawing numbers, or purchase order numbers.

Automates Numbering

Powerway Number Dispenser automates the creation and administration of number sets such as purchase order numbers or engineering drawing IDs. No more notebooks with number sequences scribbled on them. Now you can use Powerway Number Dispenser to assign, track, and report on multiple sets of numbers.

Unlimited Number of Lists

Powerway Number Dispenser enables you to organize a virtually unlimited number of lists without conflict or confusion. Its familiar Powerway interface allows you to easily control multiple lists with maximum flexibility over functions such as number use, viewing, copying and printing.

Master Number List

Powerway Number Dispenser generates a new pool of numbers, called a Master Number List, based on your specifications. You (or others with access) may then use numbers from the list as necessary. Number Dispenser records when each number was used and how it was used, along with any pertinent comments. It ensures the integrity of your number system by preventing the re-use of numbers.

Powerway Number Dispenser is just one of the modules integrated into Powerway Suite 2000, a completely integrated software solution. Suite 2000 promotes teamwork and enhances performance by giving you the ability to create, control, and share documents, data, and knowledge. Using Suite 2000, you can bring your entire organization together to overcome the problems caused by a lack of communication and collaboration such as customer complaints, product quality issues, scrap and rework, missed market opportunities and lost sales.

Powerway Number Dispenser is one of the modules that makes up Powerway Suite 2000 Document Control. These modules — Desktop, Number Dispenser, Document Manager and Intranet Publisher — work together to provide complete management and control of business-critical documents throughout their lifecycles to ensure that everyone has the right document at the right time. The software also allows for access control, version control and electronic approval routing and mark-up.

Powerway supports its industry-leading software solutions with a full range of professional services including consulting, deployment, integration and training.
